JCRS - THE HOSPITAL WITH A HEART

WHAT ABOUT WILTIS?

Wiltis and Vyts were laid up for a while. Vyts was determined as long as there is life, there is WILTIS (Hope)! One can't give up hope, or we certainly are lost. With this determination Wiltis is reappearing again and we hope to have Wiltis coming out, like Vyts "Stronger and Fatter." However, I will need your help as well as suggestions for improvement.

Thinking in terms of the future, and considering my own physical limitations, that is: — No more chas-ing around all over the country for one-day teaching stands and trying to make schedules at impossible distances, I'll now have to become more and more a sedantary person; to settle down and take it easier. There may not be a Guardian Angel the third time (so they tell me). I will have to think in new terms. With your help, I am sure, I could build up WILTIS not only to the position of one of the finest folk magazines in the country, but also one which could be remunerative for all toil put into it. I, there-fore, ask of you to send in subscriptions for yourself and for your friends and let's make WILTIS "The Hope Of The World."

If you are a subscriber and issues are still due you, the new date of expiration of your subscription will be marked below in a special section devoted to it. If there is no marking it means that no issue are owed you. Please be so kind as to remit $2.00 for next year's subscription.

We would also appreciate your suggestion as to the contents and character of WILTIS in future issues. Do you want it continued in the "Friendly, Newsy, Folksy" conversational form or would you prefer "strict business"? Your suggestions will be appreciat-ed.

YOUR SUBSCRIPTION EXPIRES ON

Vyts - Fin.

JCRS (Spirvak), the hospital with a heart and a soul as it appears from the air. To the extreme left is the Texas Building, built through the generosity of the Jew-ish Auxiliaries from Texas. New arrivals, pre and post operative cases and the very sick are housed there. To the extreme right with its "Tower Of Hope" is the Main Building. Between them stretches the Mall. On one side are the premises and farms, the Administration Building, Post Office and Store, Dining Room and Nurses Home. Behind it is the Laundry and Dairy. On the foreground of the Mall from the Texas Building is the Medical Bldg. and Lab., the Library of 20,000 books with reading rooms, and one of the loveliest Theatres. Foreground Doctor's Homes. Foreground left is the Print Shop. The surrounding land, 189 acres, is Farm Land which belong to JCRS. The place is located five miles west from Down-town Denver, toward the Mountains.
